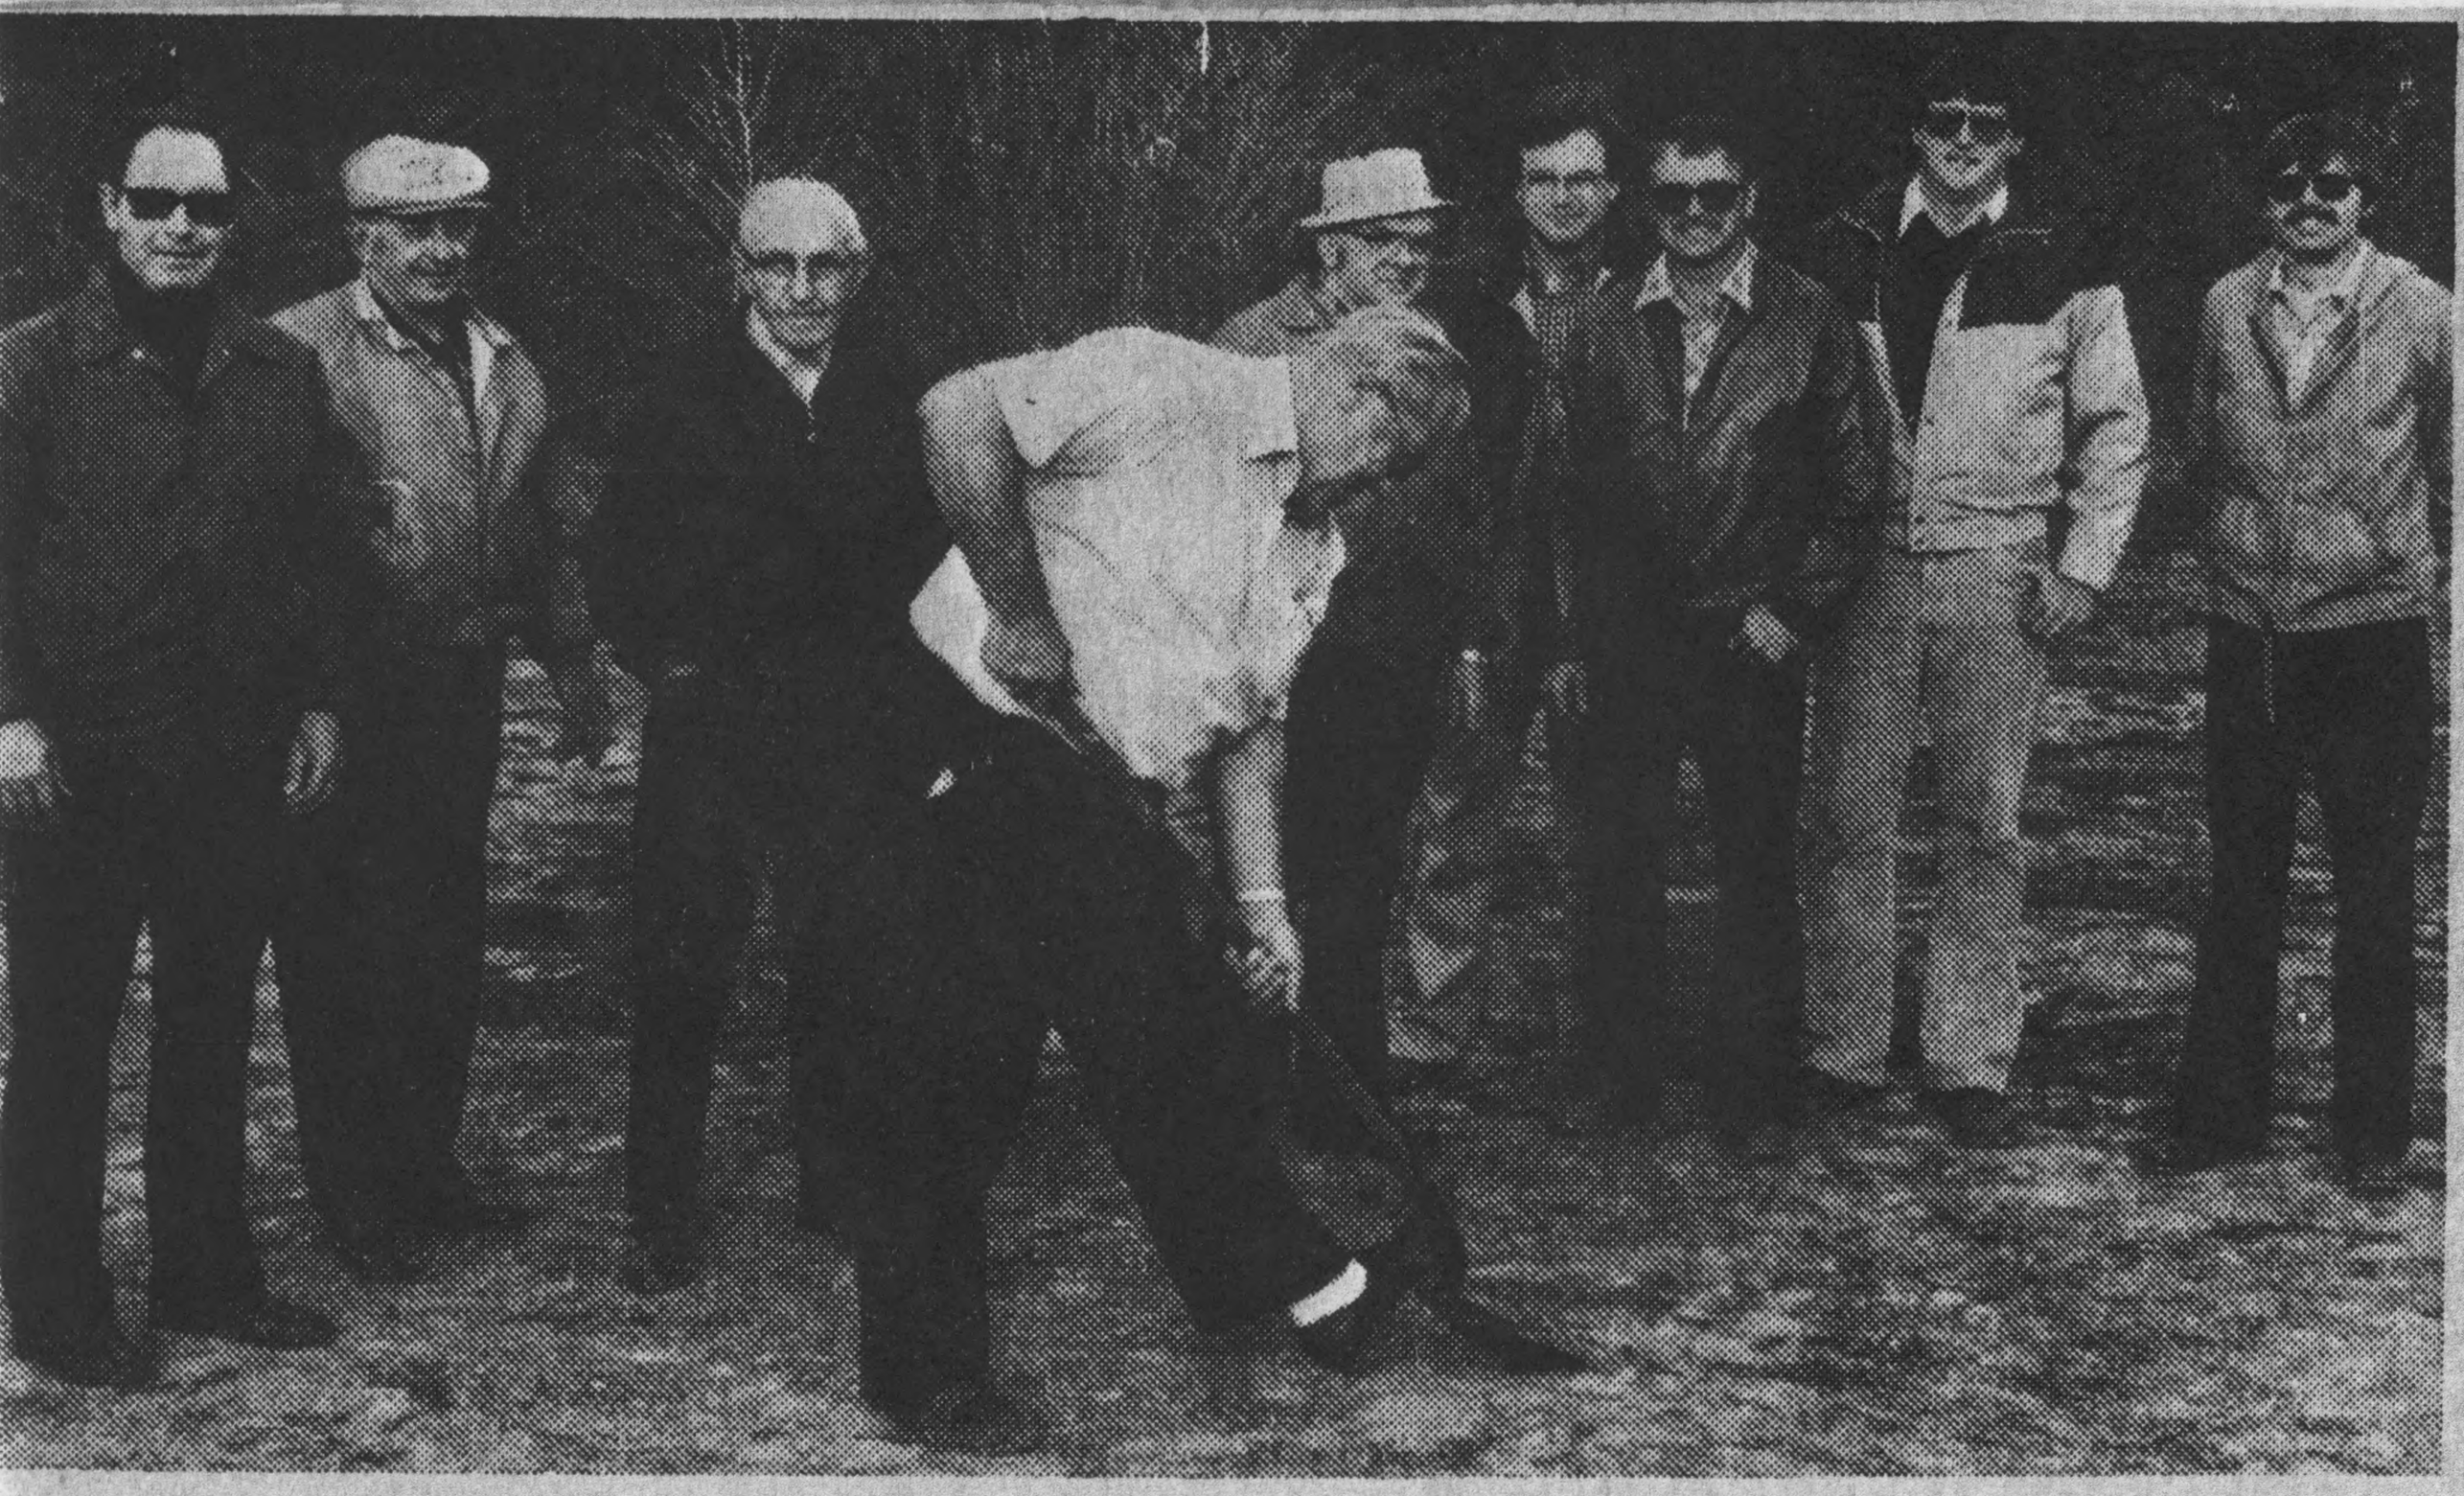
Fox Hills breaks ground for expansion project

Resort and Mishicot village officials were on hand Tuesday as groundbreaking ceremonies were conducted for a $5 million expansion project at Fox Hills Resort and Conference Center. The project, which will be conducted in three phases, calls for construction of a conference and convention center, expanded pro shop, restaurant, lounge and motel facilities, and the erection of 48 condominiums. The project is expected to be completed by next fall. Participating in the ceremonies, from left are: Harvey Dvorak, George Krause, Jim Bydalek, Fox Hills vice president Terry Schimmel, general manager Mildred Schimmel, Len Bodwin, Robert Schimmel and John Tess.



GROUND BROKEN — Mishicot Village Board President George Krause Sr. shoveled ground as ground was broken for the village's new wastewater treatment plant and sanitary sewers. Also present were (from left in rear) village trustees John Wegner, John Tess, Harvey Dvorak Sr. and Roland Schmidt, as well as Paul Wintheiser, representing the engineering firm of Donohue and Associates; village trustee Gary Yanda, Paul Steinbrecher of the engineering firm of Brey, Stuewe and Braun; and David Froh of Donohue and Associates.
